The Property

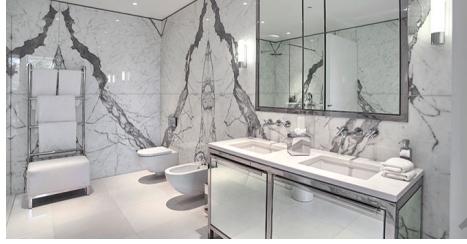

Holland Green is three new apartment buildings, grouped around the proposed new home of the Design Museum at the south of Holland Park.

Holland Green is a rare place in London where people can live in and around outstanding modern architecture, within a park.

The apartment has use of the leisure facilities with a swimming pool, gym, cinema, games room, golf simulator, steam room and sauna. Hollandgreen is situated just off High Street Kensington set back from the main road. The development was completed last year and offers excellent facilities. High Street Kensington has many shops and good local restaurants. Holland Park is situated just behind the development.
